

Greetings AP World History Students and Parents!

As of 7:45AM this morning, I am officially back from maternity leave. I was looking forward to being back with you all in our classroom this week, but we will make the best of our digital learning days for now. For those who have joined the class since I left in January, welcome! I hope that you all have been and continue to be safe and healthy!

Please read this email carefully for a few pieces of very important information.

- Assignments:
 - I will post each week's assignments and assessments to the blog a week at a time, so that you may work through at your convenience. I will post this week's assignments by 12:00pm today.
 - If you still need to complete/submit last week's assignments, please do so as soon as possible. Additionally, please look at your StudentVUE to determine if you are missing any assignments from earlier in the semester. You may turn in missing assignments for credit. Please look on the blog to find these assignments.
- I will be making phone calls starting on Tuesday for any student who I have not heard from by then.

Please reach out with any questions, comments, or concerns. I am looking forward to working with you all!
